

Don't take Chances with a Cold or Cough Take SIROLIN

SOUTH ROYALTON.

Dr. Stearns of Randolph was in town Wednesday.

Miss Mary Oaks is working at O. N. Stoughton's.

C. H. Woodard is able to be out after an attack of grippe.

Harry Bryant, who drives the Chelsea stage, is on the sick list.

Mrs. O. J. Ellis was operated on Monday for appendicitis at the home here.

Fred Bowditch of Dorchester, Mass., is spending a few days with Mrs. E. F. Watkins.

Mrs. H. H. Page of Randolph visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Drew, the first of the week.

Mrs. O. N. Stoughton, who underwent a serious operation at the Randolph sanatorium, is doing nicely.

J. J. Blanch has bought Mr. Soper's house on Highland avenue and expects to move the first of March.

CHELSEA.

In a recent issue of The Times, under the Chelsea items, there appeared a letter from Eugene E. Denmore of Waterbury, in which he stated that the Chelsea correspondent had inserted an item in the Chelsea notes stating that he (Denmore) had skipped town and denying such to be the fact, and to this charge your correspondent would respectfully refer the gentleman with the injured innocence, as well as other readers of the Chelsea notes, to the original item, which appeared in one of the issues during the last week in January, which will show for itself whether the gentleman from Waterbury or your correspondent is eligible to membership in the "Ananias" club, so far as that item is concerned.

EAST MONTPELIER.

C. A. Badger of East Montpelier is laid up with heart trouble, as a result of the grippe.

RANDOLPH.

Mrs. James Kehoe of New York City, who has been visiting her brother, Rev. Father M. S. O'Donnell, left here Friday.

George E. Brigham died at his home in East Randolph Friday, following an operation for appendicitis on Tuesday afternoon.

John Lattimer, who has been the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Ellen Lattimer, for a few days, has returned to his home in Iowa.

Miss Myrtle Bixby, who for several days has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mason, left here Friday for her home in Chelsea.

Ralph Wood, who has been ill at the home of George Chedel for several weeks, was taken to the sanatorium for care while convalescing Friday.

A council of doctors was called this week in the case of Mrs. Frank Crowe, who is now very ill from a disease which has so far puzzled the skill of many.

Fred Pece, who has been in the sanatorium recovering from an operation for appendicitis, has been having trouble with pus in the wound and is making slow progress, though more comfortable for a few days.

J. H. Fitts has gone to Birmingham, Ala., in response to a summons to appear before the United States circuit court for the southern division of the northern district of Alabama, to testify for the United States in a case against E. C. Drew, charged with fraudulent use of mails. This Drew is the same who by letters and agents has solicited more capital from the stockholders of the old Fort Payne (Alabama) Coal and Iron company, many of whom were residents of Randolph and several of whom have received letters and circulars in the last year similar to those in Mr. Fitts' possession, but who did not regard them of sufficient importance to preserve and they went into the waste basket. Fortunately Mr. Fitts kept his documents and is now ready to do good service in the courts there. Two others from Vermont have also been summoned, Mrs. Sarah Cushman of Northfield and H. D. Ryder, a lawyer from Bellows Falls.

Tortured for 15 Years

by a cure-defying stomach trouble that baffled doctors and resisted all remedies he tried, John W. Modders of Moddersville, Mich., seemed doomed. He had to sell his farm and give up work. His neighbors said, "He can't live much longer." "Whatever I ate distressed me," he wrote, "till I tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for me that I can now eat things I could not take for years. It's surely a grand remedy for stomach trouble." Just as good for the liver and kidneys. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

LYNCHER PLEADS GUILTY.

Third Man on Trial for Killing of Detective at Newark, O.

Newark, O., Feb. 18.—Clarence Timmons, on trial for first degree murder in connection with the lynching of Carl Ethtrington, a temperance detective here in July, has changed his plea of not guilty to a plea of guilty of manslaughter. Sentence was deferred until Monday. Timmons is the third of the alleged mob leaders to be adjudged guilty of manslaughter.

A Strange Legal Case.

Fine questions of law and right shade into one another with a nicety difficult to unravel, in certain phrases of double personality.

John Anderson was a fairly prosperous farmer, who rented some eighty acres in one of the corn belt states. He had a wife and family with whom he lived in perfect accord, as well as with his neighbors. He was hard working, prudent and saving, and as sound in intellect as you or I. Owing to the delicate health of one of the children, and for reasons of ambition, he conceived the idea of going to southern California to buy an orange grove, to have a home of his own, and live in peace and quiet with his family for the rest of his days. His frugal habits and continuous toil had provided enough for this purpose, so he went on alone, with the intention of sending for his family as soon as he could find the kind of place he wanted. For some time letters were received at frequent intervals; everything seemed progressing favorably with him, and then no more letters came, and all trace of him was lost. Months of waiting went by, and years. The mother and children were verging on poverty, and had long given up the father as dead. One day surprising news was brought by a neighbor, who had just returned from the West, and had known Anderson in former days. He had met Anderson face to face in California; had found him living in most prosperous circumstances with a new wife and family. But he had failed to recognize the old friend, who had grown up with him from boyhood, and seemed so changed in thought, actions, and everything but his external appearance, that the old neighbor was beginning to wonder whether or not he himself was losing his own proper identity. This news of Anderson resulted in a purse being made up for the long abandoned woman, and the neighbor and Mrs. Anderson went to California to take legal steps to enforce her rights and bring her husband back, if possible. The meeting between the two was pitiful. All who witnessed it were impressed with the man's innocence, and actually took sides against the woman for bringing trouble and notoriety to such a solid member of the community. But the wife held her ground. His eyes, hair, gait, manner of speech, all were the same she had known so long. As she recited these various facts, the many little familiar incidents known only to themselves, of their many years together, Anderson appeared sincerely dumfounded, and first with tears in his eyes, and then in anger, flatly told her she was mistaken; that he had never heard of the man Anderson, and that his name was Arnold. George Arnold. The matter got into court. All were convinced that the man was Arnold. But on hearing the other side became equally convinced that he must be Anderson. No shadow of doubt was thrown on the man's sanity. The Anderson was taken ill with pneumonia, and in the course of a week was dead, solving the problem so far as he was concerned. Then all parties agreed that the case was one of double personality. What the court's decision would have been had the man lived, of course, is unknown.—From "Who Am I?" in March Technical World Magazine.

SHIPMENT OF LAW SUPPLEMENTS.

To all inquiries as to when the law supplements will be sent out, I have this explanation to make:

The Capital City Press, who have the contract for printing these supplements, are doing all in their power to get them out. They are running their presses night and day on the work. Much of the important matter in the work came at the very end of the session.

Secretary of State Guy W. Bailey got his copy out as soon as possible, and the delay is in no way his fault. The truth of the matter is that the work made just twice as much as the last issue. This issue will make 64 pages, while the last one made only 32.

The commissioner of printing is knowing for a fact that the work is being handled with all possible speed, and the trouble with the delay as compared with the last time they were printed is that they are twice as long.

This statement is made in the interest of all concerned.

When one takes into consideration that there are over 600,000 impressions, of 16 page forms, one gets an idea of the magnitude of this work.

Over 35,000 pounds of paper will be used in this work. To newspaper publishers, and others, who are asking when the work will be ready for delivery, I wish to say just as soon as they are printed, and they will be printed just as soon as a 24-hour day will get them.

Frank T. Parsons,
Commissioner of printing,
Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 17, 1911.
